In physics, the Navier-Stokes equations ( $\nabla \cdot \tau = \rho g$ ), named after Claude-Louis Navier and George Gabriel Stokes, describe the motion of viscous fluid substances.. These balance equations arise from applying Isaac Newton's second law to fluid motion, together with the assumption that the stress in the fluid is the sum of a diffusing viscous term (proportional to the ...

Minor Head Loss – Local Losses. In industry any pipe system contains different technological elements as bends, fittings, valves or heated channels. These additional components add to the overall head loss of the system. Such losses are generally termed minor losses, although they often account for a major portion of the head loss. For relatively short pipe systems, with a relatively large
